Automatically silence notifications while driving

Thanks to iOS 11's new Do Not Disturb While Driving feature, you can set your iPhone to automatically silence notifications and keep its screen dark when you're behind the wheel. The iPhone can tell that you're driving by observing when it connects to your car's Bluetooth system or by gathering data from the phone's accelerometer.

You can choose to turn on Do Not Disturb While Driving manually or have it kick in automatically when it detects you're in the car.

Go to Settings > Do Not Disturb > Do Not Disturb While Driving
